Farmer Jed's Big Red Barn

If ya ask Farmer Jed, he'll tell ya that early to bed, early to rise, may make a man healthy, wealthy and wise...but mostly it just plain makes him tired! Such is the life for a farmer in the Village of Boydsville. While city folks, dressed in their fanciest duds, head out to their high falootin' offices every morning, Farmer Jed and his son, Little Jed Junior, make their way to the office...their Big Red Barn. No shufflin' papers or tendin' to matters of high finance here. No Siree...instead Farmer Jed spends his days cleanin' out the horse stalls on the first floor while Junior tends to the chickens in the loft.

Mrs. Applesworth's School of Book Learnin'

Ya just can't mention Boydsville School of Book Learnin' without mentioning Mrs. Applesworth. Heck, she's been teachin' there for as long as folks can remember! Known always to have a book in hand and a dusting of chalk on her dress, she runs a tight ship, often telling her students, "If you're not here to learn, then you're in the wrong place!"

Don't believe it? Well just ask Little Tommy Bearsworth. You'll find him sittin' upstairs, wearin' a dunce cap and lamentin' over his "less than acceptable" classroom behavior. If ya listen real close, you might just hear him mumblin' "A, B, C, E, D, J, G....don't know why the teacher is always pickin' on me!"
